Laugh A Minute

Two little boys were talking. One said to the other: "Aren't ants wonderful? They work and work, and never play!"

"Oh, I don't know about that," replied the other. "They go to an awful lot of picnics!"

* * *

The father was helping his young son with his homework. "Now, here we have the Jones family. There's the mother, daddy and the baby. How many people in the family?"

"Two and one to carry!" answered the son, who was obviously taking the 'new' Math.

* * *

A boy was selling lemonade from two bowls on the same stand. In front of one bowl was a sign "Five cents a glass." In front of a second bowl was a sign "Two cents a glass."

A man passed by and looked at the signs, and bought a glass of the two cent lemonade. He smacked his lips and was so delighted that he ordered a second glass.

"How can you expect to sell five cent lemonade when the two cent lemonade is so good?"

"Well," said the boy. "The dog stepped in the two cent bowl a few minutes ago, so I thought I'd better sell out fast before the word got around!"

* * *

PROF: "Wake up that fellow next to you!"

STUDENT: "You do it, Prof., you put him to sleep!"

* * *

The strong man at the circus took a lemon and cut it in half. He took one half in his hands and squeezed out the juice, using all his strength. Then he said:

"Anyone in the audience who can squeeze another drop of juice out of this half-lemon gets $50.00!"

Right away, several local strong boys came to the platform. They squeezed with all their might, but there wasn't a drop left in the lemon.

Then a skinny, little man walked up. He was werring glasses and looked as if he could be knocked over with a feather. He took the lemon-rind in one hand and out came a half a glass full of juice!

The strong man was amazed! "Who are you?" he asked.

"I work for the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue," he replied.

* * *

Actor: "I made some very valuable contacts today!"

Second actor: "I didn't get a job either."

HOW TO SOLVE THE UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM.

Manager: "I don't have a job for you. There are so many people looking for jobs that I can't even remember their names."

Applicant: "How about giving me the job of keeping record of all the names?"

* * *

The detective brought the prisoner to the judge. "The charge is bigotry, your honor. He's got three wives!"

"Three!" cried the judge. "Why you ignoramus, that's not bigotry. That's trigonometry!"

* * *

"Waiter, I find that I have just enough money to pay for the dinner, but I have nothing left for your tip."

"Let me add up that bill again, sir." said the waiter.

* * *

"If it wasn't for one thing I'd call your brother a bald-faced liar."

"What's that?"

"His beard." said the young hippie.

* * *

"A woman fell overboard from a ship yesterday, and a shark came up and looked her over and went away."

"You mean to tell me that he never even touched her?"

"No. He was a man-eating shark."

* * *

After listening to a debate on the effects of television on children, the professor said, "Television will never take the place of the newspaper."

"How can you be so sure?"

"Because. you can't wrap your garbage in a television set!"

* * *

TV MC: (to his doctor) "I'm suffering terribly from insomnia. I've tried all sorts of remedies, but I can't find anything that will put me to sleep."

DOCTOR: "Why don't you try talking to yourself?"

* * *

Irate father—"I'll teach you to kiss my daughter!"

Young man—"Too late. I've already learned."

* * *

DAFFYNITION—A barber: A brilliant conversationalist who occasionally shaves and cuts hair.
